

Say it with feeling! – Raising attainment and cultural understanding in MFL

Barclays Capital, 10 The South Colonnade, Canary Wharf, LONDON, E14 4PU

9.00 – 3.00pm Friday 3rd December 2010

‘By practitioners for practitioners’

Specialist School and Academies Trust Lead practitioner[®] led seminars offers a high quality, professional development opportunity to share best practice and explore innovative ideas.

For a one-off fee of £89 you can:

- attend the lead practice seminar
- gain access to cutting edge practice
- gather practical ideas and resources to support you in your everyday work
- be part of an ongoing network of dynamic practitioners

Aims and objectives of this seminar:

The theme of this seminar is raising attainment through classroom practice that focuses on achieving high levels of language with a cultural focus. Sessions will also cover key areas such as thinking skills, creativity and the use of technology. Sessions will provide practical ideas and examples of techniques used in the classroom to diversify the content of language teaching and to motivate students.

Delegates will experience how a focus on cultural understanding in all schemes of work can enhance teaching and learning at all stages developing a sense of purpose for using language, opportunities to experiment with words, patterns and structures and contact with the culture and native speakers. There will be input on how the use of technology can further enhance the teaching of MFL as well as on the KS3 Framework with practical ideas on how to implement this within your own lessons.

Who should attend?

This course is of relevance to anyone involved in the teaching of languages. Ideas presented can be used at all levels from KS2 to adult learners.

Delegates will take away:

- Practical ideas that can be applied immediately within the classroom
- A wide range of resources

- CDs containing resources that can be used in class
- Membership of our MFL network

Topics will include:

- Cultural understanding
- Creativity and technology

Speaker

- Neil Jones, Assistant Headteacher, Sir John Cass School, SSAT languages lead practitioner
